The Grammys introduced a new award category this year: Best Song for Social Change. The winner of this new award was 'Baraye' by Iranian singer Shervin Hajipour. The song has become an anthem for girls' and women's rights. The award shows that music can be used to draw attention to global issues.

We want to know, what is your power song? Is there a song you like that sends an important message? Or is there a song from the past that still makes a positive impact. We want to hear about it. What makes it special? We will post the results in the next newsletter.

Teacher SPOTLIGHT

James McDermott

My name is James McDermott. I have been a teacher for 3 years. I currently teach Elementary and Middle School Physical Education and Health.

I love teaching online because it pushes my creativity limits in a PE setting and is helping me grow as an educator.

In my spare time I like to watch television and play video games. My favorite food is pizza and mozzarella sticks. My favorite musical artist is Jessie Reyes. I am more of a dog person. The last show I binge watched was Archer and the last book I read was Go Dog Go that I read to my nephew.

If I could have dinner with one person it would be Lou Holtz because he is a living legend in my eyes who had a very successful career and has a lot of knowledge and understanding in the sports world.

A fun fact about me is that I am the JV basketball coach at the high school.

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

Irving Arias Fillion

Irving was nominated to be in the Student Spotlight by Mrs. Snyder. Irving is an awesome student. He attends class regularly.

He is responsive and polite. Irving is an active participant in class. He completes all of his work on time and puts a strong effort into his work.

His detailed work is always very thorough and well thought out. Keep up the awesome job Irving! The world is waiting for you to do great things.

Black History Month is an annual celebration of achievements by African Americans and a time for recognizing their central role in U.S. history. Today we recognize the 6888th Battalion. Nicknamed, the "Six Triple Eight", the battalion consisted mainly of African-American women who were assigned to England and France during World War II.

During World War II there was a significant shortage of soldiers who were able to manage the postal service for the U.S. Army overseas. So, their mission was to clear several years of backlogged mail in the European Theater of Operations. They worked in cold, dirty, dark rat infested aircraft hangers with broken windows.
