Four Regions of China
What are the 4 regions of China?

- Northeast
- Southeast
- Northwest
- Southwest
What is China’s Capital?

• Beijing
What is loess? Where is it found in China and how does it get there?

• A fine yellow dust

• Found in Yellow River Valley

• It blows into the area from dust storms in Mongolia and the Gobi Desert

• It is carries downstream by the Yellow River
Why is the Yellow River sometimes called “China’s Sorrow”?

- It has had many destructive floods
- Other times it completely dries up leaving no water
What industry is the most popular in the Southeast Region of China?

- Agriculture
What is double cropping?

• Growing more than one crop a year on the same land
What is China’s busiest port?

• Shanghai
What forms China’s northern border?

- The Gobi Desert
What important ancient trade route crossed the deserts of Northwest China?

• The Silk Road
What is the major economic activity in the Northwest Region of China?

• Nomadic Herding
What land form dominates the Southwest Region of China?

• The Tibetan Plateau
Who was the main religious leader in Tibet and where did he go after the Communist Chinese takeover?

- The Dalai Lama
- India
What is a theocrat?

• A person who claims to rule with divine power from God
What is an autonomous region?

• A political region with limited self-government